

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A layer forming relief transferring and printing an application fluid applied on printing convex portions on a printing object, the layer forming relief including printing convex portions formed as a strip, and a plurality of micro-projections distributed on top faces of the printing convex portions so as to form a groove between adjoining micro-projections for retaining the application fluid.